

Re: Progress Update (Unit 9 I&S Studio)

From Sitong Wu <s.wu0120171@arts.ac.uk>

Date Thu 2024-10-17 5:00 PM

To Irene Albino <i.albino@csm.arts.ac.uk>

Dear Irene,

Thanks for sending in the link! I'm in library now and was browsing the Food & Cutlery section. I will check the search results on specific cutlery designs.

See you soon.

Regards,
Sitong

From: Irene Albino <i.albino@csm.arts.ac.uk>

Sent: Thursday, October 17, 2024 4:51 PM

To: Sitong Wu <s.wu0120171@arts.ac.uk>

Subject: Re: Progress Update (Unit 9 I&S Studio)

Hi Sitong,

I was working all day unfortunately, but just by searching quickly on the online directory of the library I found they have many titles around cutlery and designing for the table https://libsearch.arts.ac.uk/cgi-bin/koha/opac-search.pl?limit=&q=cutlery&limit=&weight_search=1

Hope that helps!
See you tomorrow!

Best,
Irene

Irene Albino

Pronouns she/her

Studio Tutor

BA Graphic Communication Design

Central Saint Martins, UAL

Working days: Wednesday, Thursday, Friday

From: Irene Albino <i.albino@csm.arts.ac.uk>

Sent: 17 October 2024 10:48

To: Sitong Wu <s.wu0120171@arts.ac.uk>

Cc: Leslie Kwok <l.kwok@csm.arts.ac.uk>; Paul Finn <p.finn@csm.arts.ac.uk>

Subject: Re: Progress Update (Unit 9 I&S Studio)

Hi Sitong,

Thank you for reaching out :)

I appreciate the effort you put on catching up with the brief! However - and after checking several times myself! - tobacco is not considered food (nor smoking considered eating- unless you can prove this is wrong!) so it would be best to go back to the idea of cutlery :)

There are several resources on the pad let that can help push this direction forward, like 'Consider the Fork', a book you can find in the library - and if you check the shelf where that sits, I am sure you will find several other ideas around the way we use other objects to eat, or do all cultures do that? Some say that using metal cutlery is altering how the food tastes..

Happy to chat more tomorrow, but in the mean time try to bring as much as you can in the session - an interesting research reference and a practitioner that addressed similar theme 🙌

Best,
Irene

Irene Albino

Associate Lecturer

Central Saint Martins, UAL

From: Sitong Wu <s.wu0120171@arts.ac.uk>
Sent: Thursday, October 17, 2024 12:17:38 AM
To: Irene Albino <i.albino@csm.arts.ac.uk>
Cc: Leslie Kwok <l.kwok@csm.arts.ac.uk>; Paul Finn <p.finn@csm.arts.ac.uk>
Subject: Progress Update (Unit 9 I&S Studio)

Dear Irene,

Sorry about my absence last Friday.

I have a change in idea, and hope to update my progress with you.

The initial idea was redesign cutlery. Throughout the week I come up with the second idea: transform [vaping device] to a handheld [smokable aromatic diffuser], which eliminates nicotine intake.

This falls under category of Consumption and Experience within the Food brief. Seeing smokers' social gathering around campus, I feel this idea is more relatable and impactful.

I have updated in my section on Padlet.

Please let me know your opinions and if you have any advice.

Looking forward hearing from you,
Sitong (Key)